The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 6,8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Imaizumi et al. or Leo et al.

Imaizumi et al. teach a method of discharging a sheet from a fusing station comprising operating a separating claw by pivoting it using a spring so as to contact a heat roller with substantially constant pressure.

It is noted that the applicant's method is fully disclosed in either patent however the structural specifics are not. However, "to be entitled patentable weight in method claims, the recited structural limitations must affect the method in a manipulative sense and not amount to mere claiming of a use of a particular structure" (Ex parte Pfeiffer, 135 USPQ 31,33). In the instant case, many different prior art claws will perform the method as claimed by applicant, and therefore it seems the recited structure does not affect the method.

2. Claims 1,3-5,11-14 are allowable over the prior art of record.
